Government research from the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, or NREL, shows that homeowners comparing solar prices online save around $2,800 when buying solar.

However, most of these websites set unrealistic expectations homeowners because they are overly simplistic. They can't tell you important things you need to know before you even start a price comparison process, such as how many solar panels you need to power your home or the best brands of solar panels on the market.

We have spent the last 10 years building what is, by far, the most accurate and comprehensive online home solar estimator in America. With our calculator, you'll learn how many solar panels your home needs and how much power they will produce. We can then offer a meaningful price comparison between our network of over 300 pre-screened solar companies.

While there are now many installers performing high-quality solar panel installations, it is difficult to know who is both reputable and likely to be around to honor their 25-year (or more) warranties.

Research over many thousands of installations shows that there are several good reasons to go local. SolarReviews data, from tens of thousands of reviews of solar companies, shows that local, family-owned solar companies record far higher levels of client satisfaction. This is why we recommend going with a company that's local to your area rather than a nationwide installer.
