When you turn on your Chrysler, Dodge, Jeep, or Ram, the car battery is what allows the starter and motor to function. Your battery provides the necessary electrical current to power the electrical components within your car, truck, or SUV, including the interior and exterior lights, as well as various accessories. If your car battery fails, the vehicle will no longer receive the power it needs to run, and it will not start. We are the premier provider of certified Mopar battery services in the St. George, UT area.

Schedule an appointment for a battery inspection at Stephen Wade CDJR, and we will perform a detailed examination of your battery, including diagnostics and a check of the various connections. We can let you know the condition of your car battery and advise you as to whether it may need to be replaced.

The various components within your vehicle can deteriorate and degrade over time. This includes your car
