Our rental service is completely turnkey. As a one-stop-shop, we're 100% focused partnering with you to determine your specific needs: whether that be contingency planning, delivery and setup, partnering with electrical contractors to ensure the equipment is properly connected, helping get your business up and running fast, service support and maintenance, fueling, training, tear-down--you name it.

As a specialty rental provider, we have a unique approach to delivering industrial, business-critical power solutions that outshines the competition. We are one of the few companies in our space with a team of dedicated technicians, salespeople, administrative support, and operations that is solely rental-focused.

Our power rental fleet is one of the largest in the Southwest. Our generator solutions range from 100 to 2000 kW and are utilized for both standby and emergency applications.

We have industrial rental air compressors and compressed air treatment equipment at the ready. Our quality electric and diesel-driven air compressors can be applied to stationary or portable applications.

Our modern rental fleet includes 53" multi-temperature trailers for stationary or on the road use. These trailers feature advanced refrigeration controls, including multi-temperature systems, that allow total temperature control of up to 3 zones. Our refrigerated units are ideal for food distributors, retailers, grocery and drug store chains, big box stores, florists, emergency services, weather events and more.

Our rental fleet includes forklift rental units that fulfill operations in a variety of applications, such as oil rig platforms, loading docks, assembly lines, construction sites, and warehouses.

When everyone else is evacuating, Stewart & Stevenson Mobile Command Centers are going in, setting up in the center of the disaster to provide direct rental assistance and service onsite.

We do this because we are committed to helping you keep the promises you've made to your customers. Especially in a time of crisis, you can depend on us to be right where we're needed, going above and beyond to deliver an exceptional customer service experience.
